What an Unmanly Platform.

Among other glaring absurdities and expressions of profound nonsense in the Democratic platform, is the old story of hailing the return of the revolted States—of peace on the basis of the Crittenden Compromise, and of a desire to make an amicable settlement of our National difficulties We would like to know who hinders the return of the revolted states? They went off without cause and of their own motion They are allowed to come back as soon as they will nothing but their own treason stands in the way, and that is so bold, defiant and destructive, that nothing but force can be used to overcome it So the South itself declares It repudiates and sneers at all this idle bubble of Northern sympathizers about "an amicable settlement " it is determined to crush the Government or to be crushed by it The result, it insists, must be victory or annihilation, as it never will come to terms, except upon compulsion. No intelligent man can deny that such is the position which it assumes Read the following from a late Richmond Enquirer, and then ask the Democratic platform manufacturers, what they mean by obtruding such humbuge upon the attention of a sensible community. Declaring the intentions of the rebels, it says

> [illegible] that they must conquer or perish [illegible] compromise there can be none that the [illegible] or the Confederate people must be [illegible] must dictate a peace or else our enemies [illegible] our terms, or they on theirs, we on [illegible] or they on ours that they must be [illegible] dued and we or we beggared and [illegible] and better so We protest that [illegible] is altogether to our mind If any [illegible] shrinks from abiding this issue, [illegible] exact form, it is time that such Confederate [illegible] gather up and clutch all he can lay his hands upon [illegible] turn it into gold and jewels, and sneak away [illegible] the lines, provided he can escape the robbers that infest those parts

And yet with such avowals before its eyes, the Democracy is opposed to any further contest It wants peace with rebels in arms, when it cannot but know that the consequence must be the total ruin and overthrow of the Nation Ah, this pretense of peace and amicable settlements is all a blind, it is dust thrown in the faces of the people, The real purpose of the so called Democratic party in this State,—as too clearly appears from its refusal to support the Government, and from its anxiety to save traitors and rebels from the punishment which their crimes merit, is simply and silently to betray the Union to the South; to sacrifice the Government for the sake of slavery, and by securing the triumph of secession, to sell the Republic to its old masters, who made it the instrument of their ungodly ambition Where is the patriotism of a party, which, in its convention, has no sympathy for the Government and spends its breath in denouncing the Administration by wholesale? It found time to express its solemn and profound opinion that "negroes are not citizens of the United States," but never a syllable did it express of a desire that the supremacy of the United States should be maintained. It seemed to care more to exercise its ingenuity in devising expressions to show its desire to keep negroes in bondage, than to protect free institutions for white men, and from its platform, one might well infer that its mission was the adoption of something to prove that it was anxious to be reckoned among the most abject of the degraded subjects of Jeff Davis There is scarcely a free or manly thought in all its stupid verbiage; it only shows to what base uses Democracy can reduce its blind and slavish adherents.

How it Happened — Much wonder has been expressed, why the Democratic Convention should condemn the rebellion, and yet fail to intimate any wish or hope in regard to its suppression, except by abusing the Government, while attempting to crush it and to prop ab treason A delegate explains the mystery, by saying that among the members, were many War Democrats, who insisted that there should be no expression of sympathy with the rebellion, while an equal number demanded that there should be nothing in the platform, which could imply a readiness or a disposition to sustain the Government in the prosecution of the war Between the two factions, under the midwife tactics of Judge Watt, we have the precious specimen of political doctrines which is to be the basis of the action of the Democratic party for the present year Part iron and part clay though mostly mud, it fitly represents the party that made it How can a respectable man defend it? If he supports the war, he will be asked why the Government is not justified in its measures for its prosecution if he opposes the war, he must explain how the condemnation of the rebellion which is expressed is to be made practically effective

Perhaps however, we ought to say no more upon the subject, as doubtless the platform is the best the poor fellows could make, considering the materials they had, and the oil and water elements of which the Convention was composed

Rev Dr Bellows —New York March 14th — Rev Dr Bellows announced to his congregation yesterday at the conclusion of the morning services that he had received by telegraph an urgent and most affectionate invitation to go to California to fill the place made vacant by the death of Rev. T Starr King, and that he deemed it his duty to accept the invitation and go at once, with the distinct understanding, however, that it would be a temporary arrangement, and that he would return to his duties here at the end of six months or about the first of October next He stated his reasons for seeking to go in such strong terms that it was unanimously voted to grant him the leave of absence for which he asked, and a resolution was also adopted expressing the entire sympathy of the congregation with Dr Bellows in the noble objects which he aims to accomplish by his long journey to the Pacific coast These objects may be briefly stated as the promotion of the interests of liberal Christianity and the interests of that immensely important organization, the United States Sanitary Commission It seems that California has contributed in all, nearly a million dollars to the funds of this association and that the earnest and eloquent labors of T Starr King have all along been recognized as the grand motive power for the accomplishment of this result. But that grand motive power has suddenly ceased to act, and that sublime eloquence will no more be heard on earth Dr Bellows hopes by his presence in California to continue the great work which his young friend had so nobly and successfully commenced and almost completed.—Correspondence of the Boston Advertiser.

It is to be hoped,—and in this expression we believe every patriotic man and woman in the State will coincide with us—that during his stay on this coast, Dr. Bellows will find time to visit Oregon We know that he will be cordially welcomed, and are sure that his eloquent voice would persuade many who have been indifferent to the great subject of his present labors, to do their full duty An invitation has already been extended to him, which we feel almost positive he will not decline

The Primary Meetings —Union voters will notice that they are called together in the different precincts of this county, this afternoon at one o'clock In the north precinct of this city, the meeting will be held at Thompson's Hall, and in the South, at the Court House Some complaint has been made that the meetings are to be in the afternoon, when working and business men cannot easily leave their employment but we presume that this will not hinder those who feel interested, from doing their duty. The action of to day will result in the selection of the county ticket, and probably indicate the preference of the people for Representatives It is not, therefore, a light or indifferent matter, it is true that the Union sentiment of Multnomah is strong, abundantly so, but it will not be safe because of its strength to overload it with burdens. We hear of plots and counterplots, about which we care very little, we are only anxious that the Convention shall consist of fair and faithful men, not committed to personal issues, but seeking only the highest public good. If they are so, a ticket will be nominated, which all can cordially support, and which will be triumphantly elected But if the work of to day develops tricks to gain personal ends, we fear that there may be division and disaffection, resulting in mischief While we support a good cause, our union should be perfect, and those who seek to use it for demagogue purposes, should be utterly discarded Let the best and most useful men be selected, and all who are reasonable will be satisfied—it is no great matter what others say or do

The Plain Truth —The papers in the East, which to this time have refused to support the Administration in its efforts to suppress the rebellion, are beginning to see the suicidal folly of their course One of them in New Jersey has lately discarded its allegiance to its leaders, and says

> It is evident that the only way for the Democracy of this State and the Union to succeed is to throw overboard those soi disant leaders of secession proclivities who are trying to fasten themselves around the neck of the party—and who will, like the Old Man of the Sea surely bring nothing but death and destruction—and vote only for those men for office who are known to be true and warm adherents to the Constitution and the Union, and who, if elected, will turn a deaf ear to anything tinctured with Copperheadism and disloyalty With Union platforms and Union leaders the Democratic party will be successful, but with Copperheads as directors and with platforms composed of secession planks, the party will and ought to be defeated.
> We have a glorious country, noble institutions, the largest enjoyment of civil and religious liberty the brightest future prospects, if only true to ourselves and worthy of the high destiny placed within our reach and in view of it all who is unwilling to bear his share of the burdens the trials the privations and the sacrifices which we must endure to secure to ourselves and our posterity this glorious heritage? In view of it, who would be a Copperhead traitor to this glorious country? Who in the bright future before us, would have it thrown up to himself or his children that he not only stood sullenly and selfishly aloof from this great work, but that his heart and his sympathies were with domestic rebels and foreign foes?

Preaching Politics.—Bishop Purcell's organ, the Catholic Telegraph, at Cincinnati, Ohio, is still preaching politics. On the 27th of February, it says

> As rats abandon sinking ships, so the advocates of slavery are taking a long farewell to the peculiar institution Even Brooks, of the N Y Express, has turned his back on it Before many months the white laborer will have a field of enterprise opened to his energies such as was never seen before in this or any other country Let the church prepare for the new order of things The land that was desolate shall blossom like the rose Where the pestiferous breath of slavery heretofore destroyed every holy effort of our faith to take root and flourish, now that the evil is removed, the pure breath of freedom prevails, and the signs of the cross will be seen where a few years ago no one thought of its appearance The enemies of the church and of our humanity rage in vain Senseless political prejudices must disappear before the light of divine truth
> The end of slavery will open the rich and extensive fields of the South to the white laborer The productive soil, the climate and undeveloped resources of those States will never be fully realized until the institution of slavery is swept away and men go there who do not consider "honest labor degrading"

A Secessionist Taken at his Word —During a recent trip of one of the steamers plying between San Francisco and Victoria, a boasting Secesh renegade was taken down a peg or two in the following manner A number of gentlemen were talking about the rapid depreciation of Confederate money, and prophesying that the bubble would soon burst Secesh who had been [illegible] listening to the conversation finally [illegible] himself and declared that Confederate money was as good as gold any day His announcement was received with shouts of derisive laughter which so nettled the boaster that he announced himself ready to redeem in gold every dollar in Confederate money that could be brought to him "Do you mean what you say?" asked one of the gentlemen, while a merry twinkle [illegible] the corner of his eyes "I am, sir" [illegible] the scoffer "I would like to have the gold for this note" and he laid upon the table a five dollar note that he had extracted from his pocket book The secesh [illegible] handed a five dollar gold piece and gathered up the [illegible] "I have another note, I believe" said the scoffer, as he laid down a twenty dollar bill A cloud of trouble swept over the boaster but vanished almost as soon as it had appeared and he redeemed the second note

"I have another note" said the terrible man with the mild blue eye, which twinkled with mischief, and secesh was compelled to redeem it As he folded up the bill and deposited it in his pocket, secesh said, "I suppose you are satisfied that Confederate money is as good as gold" "Not yet, my dear fellow" said the blue eyed pest. "I find that I have another note," and he immediately produced a fifty dollar bill The man from the South firmly set his teeth together for a moment, probably to repress the storm that was brewing in his bosom and slowly pulled out his purse and redeemed the note By this time a large crowd had gathered around the parties, and quite a number handed in one or two dollar notes, which were immediately redeemed by the self appointed Sub-Treasurer of Jeff Davis Government until he had paid out between $200 and $300 dollars. By this time Secesh had concluded that he had gotten himself into a serious scrape, the big drops of perspiration were standing upon his forehead like warts upon the back of a toad, his breathing had become stentorious, and his lips pallid, when the blue-eyed scoffer returned from his stateroom with a plethoric wallet in his hand. Seating himself by the table, he counted out six thousand dollars in Confederate scrip, and asked the boaster for the cash It was too much for the poor fellow He jumped from his seat and declared that the institution had suspended payment. He had no idea when he made the offer to redeem Confederate money that there was a dozen notes on the coast The blue-eyed scoffer had been a soldier in the army, and while in the South had managed to collect several thousand dollars of what he considered as worthless paper, but having been transferred to a post in Idaho Territory, he concluded to take the "queer" stuff along with him to distribute as curiosities amongst his acquaintances, but finding a good opportunity to "realize" upon a portion of it, he was not backward in embracing what chance had thrown in his way —S F Call

The War and the Finances —"Agate," the well posted and always sensible Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette, writes to that paper as follows We ask the reader to peruse his statements carefully

> Not less dangerous than the folly of supposing the war practically ended, is the other folly of supposing that we can go on with impunity, conducting it as long as we please, on the most extravagant and reckless system of expenditure ever known in the whole history of war We do not add to day one soldier to our ranks who does not cost us, in one way or another, double what any nation, ancient or modern, ever paid for its soldiers before, It is a very cheap style of popularity—seeking to answer that they are worth all we pay for them, but when they themselves and their children come to pay off the debt we are incurring, the answer may not seem so satisfactory
>
> We have conducted the war three years For the first its expenses were, in round numbers, about $269,034 000, For the second it swelled to about $585 087,000 For the year nearly closing it will foot up (including deficiencies) according to appropriations already passed and estimates in, about $927,439 000 On this expending scale, very simple arithmetical rules will show how long it will take to bankrupt the nation We cannot strain and strain our finances without limit, there must come a time when with sore labor and many tax gatherers we begin to pay the debts we are so lavishingly incurring or depreciate our bonds; Already Mr Chase has sent in his earnest protest to the Committee, and has notified them that he will not undertake to meet the new and ever increasing demands upon the Treasury, unless they promptly inaugurate a system of thorough and unsparing taxation When that begins to press, we shall see whether demagogues will still insist that from month to month the expenses of the war shall be swelled to more and more exciting proportions
> "So much for what lies ahead of us—in the way of fighting and paying the bills"

Declines —We learn that J S Smith, Esq, to whom was assigned the thankless job of trying to defeat the Hon R P Boise, as candidate for Judge in the Third District, has refused to engage in any such speculation A sagacious decision!

Mr T S Farmer the Superintendent, left on Monday, to prepare the foundation to receive it, and arrangements are made to convey it over the mountains as soon as the roads will [illegible] and it is expected ten days will be [illegible] to put it in working order, after it [illegible] in Owyhee

THE PANORAMA —Another large audience greeted the Panorama last evening Besides the [illegible] already mentioned of this elegant [illegible], may be classed the departure of the [illegible] Zouaves from New York, views of [illegible], Georgetown, the Long Bridge, [illegible] Heights Harper's Ferry, Fortress [illegible] The attack on the 6th Massachusetts Regiment in Baltimore, the battles of Great Bethel Rich Mountain, Carthage, [illegible] River, the two Bull Run battles, the [illegible] of the rebel privateer Petrel, the [illegible] of Fort Hatteras, the siege of [illegible] the battles of Springfield, Ball's Bluff, Antietam and Fredericksburg, all have some of the reality, and are painfully exciting. The [illegible] will be open this afternoon, and this evening will be the last exhibition in Portland

STATISTICAL —The Portland correspondent of the Bulletin, writing under date of March [illegible], gives a summary of the statistics furnished by the Portland Directory, and concludes as follows

"That this is a wooden town is sufficiently [illegible] by the great preponderance of [illegible] over other mechanical pursuits [illegible] thing to take probably [illegible] the artificers in wood, as the figures only [illegible] the whisky shops, while there [illegible] on an average at least two persons [illegible] on the inside of each bar. This, [illegible], gives one 'compounder of [illegible]' to every 19 of the male population [illegible] a popular if not a profitable business"

A CASE OF TREMENS —A sorrowful case of delirium tremens, occurred in the city yesterday and the unfortunate victim of excessive drink came near sacrificing his existence before he was taken care of SMOKE AND FIRE —The woods east of the [illegible] smoking all day, were again lighted up last evening by an extensive conflagration. We hope these fires may not produce damages like those of three weeks since.

INFORMATION WANTED —Dr J A Ch[illegible] has handed us a letter from Mrs Seymour Hurd, of Lima, Livingston Co, N Y inquiring after her only brother—D W C French We give the following extract, containing data from which the desired information is sought to be obtained, with a hope that it may prove useful

"Fifteen years ago the 12th inst, (March 1864) he left Bath, Steuben Co, N Y in company with a party of young men for California, overland They suffered much but ultimately reached their destination After two or three years spent in Stockton he went to Visalia, and purchased a ranch He was among the first settlers of that place, and for the last seven or eight years he remained there made the practice of law his business—having studied with David Rumsey in Bath, before leaving home He was elected magistrate and served some years, I do not know exactly how long In July, 1861, I received a letter from him saying that he was in Portland Oregon, had reached there in January previous, but was soon to leave going into the new mines which had just then been discovered Since then I have never heard from him"

THE REGULAR SALE DAY —General topics may become dull, and the materials for an item run scarce, but our word for it Mr A B Richardson never fails to offer inducements for purchasers at his Auction House on the regular sale day See advertisement for this morning

STAR BAKERY —The new firm, that have opened this new establishment are men well known in the city, and they promise to do a thriving business Portland can boast of her reliable means for furnishing the very best of material for supporting life in general, when her excellent bakeries are taken into account.

THE LAW —Persons in Oregon having business of a legal nature to attend to in Idaho, are referred to the card of A C Swift, Esq , in this paper

STATE PRINTER —The late Democratic Convention at Albany made no nomination for State Printer, and the published proceedings do not show that the subject was considered We are informed, however, that the managers determined to assume that Mr Bush has a legal right to the office, until 1866 We do not pretend to be versed in the technical absurdities by which lawyers sometimes contrive to make the law itself ridiculous, and therefore, do not pretend to predict the decisions of the Courts, should the matter ever unfortunately come before them, but a candid, common sense view of the case, makes this claim in behalf of Mr Bush preposterous.

Let us state it The Constitution provides, Art. XII, that there shall be elected, "at the times and places of choosing members of the Legislative Assembly, a State Printer, who shall hold his office for the term of four years" Art XV, Sec 1, says, "All officers, except members of the Legislative Assembly, shall hold their offices until their successors are elected and qualified." Art II Sec. 14, declares that "General elections shall be held on the first Monday in June, biennially."

Under this Constitution, Bush was elected in 1858 In 1862, Harvey Gordon was chosen, but died before entering upon the duties of the office Mr B held over until the present time, under Art XV, above quoted, and will continue to hold until his successor is "elected and qualified" according to law Now, why may not that successor be properly elected next June? The election is a general one, under Art. II, and members of the Legislature will then be chosen, as required by Art XII The conditions will be all perfect, and the election, in our view, valid For the present incumbent to claim, because the first successor chosen failed, by reason of an act of Divine Providence, to qualify, that no other successor could be chosen till the expiration of another full term of four years, is simply absurd Mr. Bush held the office by the voice of the people, four years He has held it two years longer by accident He and his friends ought, in common fairness, to be willing now to submit his claims to the people again. Put him in nomination, and if he gets more votes than Mr Pittock, no one will gainsay his right to the place

Another explanation of the non-action of the Convention is suggested, namely That as Pittock's election is certain, it was useless to bring out an opposing candidate In that view, the Convention acted wisely, but why nominate candidates for other offices? Still greater sagacity would have been exhibited by making no nominations at all —Statesman

A FAMILY QUARREL —They talk a good deal in England about "that unnatural strife" —meaning the American war, but relationship does not appear to breed kindness, even in Europe The present war in Denmark is a quarrel among blood relations, who ought to be ashamed of themselves for falling by the ears before the whole world. A London paper says of the recent occurrences, in the Duchies "Her Majesty's brother in law and her daughter's father in law, have occupied with their forces two provinces claimed by the Prince of Wales"

We often hear young men say that the times are hard, they can't save money, etc , but those who have taken our advice and purchased their apparel from Heuston, Hastings & Co always succeed, and the reason is obvious Their goods are cut and made in the best manner It don't cost any more than slop shop goods, and the man wearing good clothes is always looked upon with more respect than the shabby, mean-dressed, shoddy wearer

BEAUTIFUL —Miles' make of Ladies' Serge Congress heel Gaiter Boots, Philadelphia make, are certainly the most elegant in the United States The name will always be observed upon the sole of the shoe Shelby has just received a few dozen pairs, expressed direct from the East If in want of such goods call soon

There being no Precinct Committees the County Committee hereby designate Thompson s Hall Washington street, North Portland Precinct, and the Court House, South Portland Precinct, the places for holding said meetings, in pursuance of notice heretofore published The time of meeting, 1 o clock P M Saturday 23d inst

Marriage in High Life.—It is rumored in certain circles that the great little people now on exhibition at the museum, General Green and Miss Amer are contemplating a matrimonial alliance. Gen Green is the son of a substantial farmer in Lincoln, Illinois, a man of wealth, of marriageable age, if not of marriageable stature, and favorably inclines to the little woman. Miss Amer is a native of Philadelphia, a bright, intelligent, good looking womanly little creature, and if she and the General chooses to strike up a match the public need not trouble themselves about it except in the way of congratulation. It is in accordance with the fitness of things that these diminutive people marry, and we hope to record the incident and attend the ceremony.

Tom Thumb was once a candidate for Miss Amer's hand, and Barnum offered her $5,000 if she would have him. But the little woman said that $5,000 would not tempt her to marry an idiot. "You know, Barnum," said she, "that Tom Thumb is not smart, and I would be throwing myself away, to tie myself to him for such a paltry sum." "Well Lizzie," said the Great Showman, "what will you ask to marry him?" The little woman hesitated a moment, and then said: "Barnum, marriage is a solemn undertaking. I must have a day to consider." Next day she came into the office and laid before the Showman a paper on which she had written her terms something like the following: "I will marry Tom Thumb for $25,000. I will live with him and try to be an affectionate and dutiful wife and hope to be able to respect him. I require $5 000 cash in hand, $5 000 may remain on first class city security for one year, and the remaining $15,000 may remain ten years on approved real estate city security at seven per cent. interest. Upon these terms, and none other will I consent to marry the General. It is understood that you are to furnish the wedding outfit." Barnum saw that he was no match for the little woman and declined the alliance. The General subsequently married Lavina Warren.

Miss Amer is the eldest of four sisters, all of whom, at the death of her mother, were dependant upon her exertions for support. Yesterday she said she had them all married and off her hands, and was now about to think of looking out for herself, both in affairs of money and in matters of affection. She looks upon the General's suit with complacency. Barkis is willing and the alliance is not only possible but probable.—Chicago Tribune, March 11th.

A Disagreeable Religious Man.—It must be admitted with great regret that people who make a considerable profession of religion, have succeeded in making themselves more thoroughly disagreeable than almost any other human beings have made themselves. You will find people who claim not merely to be pious and christian people, but to be very much more pious and christian than others, who are extremely uncharitable, unamiable, repulsive, stupid, and intensely opinionated and self satisfied.

We know, from a very high authority, that a Christian ought to be an epistle in commendation of the blessed faith he holds. But it is beyond question that many people who profess to be christians, are like grim gorgons' heads, warning people off from having anything to do with Christianity. Why should middle-aged clergymen walk about the streets with a sullen and malignant scowl always on his face, which, at least, would be a very ugly one? Why should another walk with his nose in the air, and his eyes rolled up until they seem very likely to roll out? And why should a third be dabbled over with a clammy perspiration and prolong all his vowels to twice the usual length? It is indeed a most woful thing, that people who evince a spirit in every respect the direct contrary to that of our blessed Redeemer, should fancy that they are Christians of singular attainments, and it is more woful still that many young people should be scared into religion or unbelief by the wretched delusion that these creatures, wickedly caricaturing Christianity, are fairly representing it. I have seen more deliberate malice, more lying and cheating, more backbiting and slandering, denser stupidity and greater self-sufficiency among bad hearted and wrong headed religionists than among any other human beings. I have known more malignity and slander conveyed in the form of prayer than would have consigned an ordinary slanderer to the pillory. I have known a person who made evening prayer a means of infuriating and stabbing the servants, under the pretext of confessing their sins. "Thou knowest, Lord, how Thy servants have been occupied this day;" with these words did the blasphemous mockery of prayer begin one Sunday evening in a house, I could easily indicate; and then the man, under the pretext of addressing the Almighty, raked up the misdoings of the servants (they being present of course) in a fashion which, if he had ventured on at any other time, would probably have led some of them to assault him.—Country Parson.

Obstinacy.—An obstinate man does not hold opinions, but they hold him; for when he is once possessed with an error, it is like a devil, only cast out with great difficulty. Whatsoever he lays hold on, like a drowning man, he never loses, though it do but help to sink him sooner. His ignorance is abrupt and inaccessible, impregnable both by art and nature, and will hold out to the last, though it has nothing but rubbish to defend. It is as dark as pitch, and sticks as fast to anything it lays hold on. His skull is so thick that it is proof against reason, and never cracks but on a wrong side, just opposite to that against which the impression is made, which surgeons say does happen very frequently. The slighter and more inconsistent his opinions are, the faster he holds them, otherwise they would fall asunder of themselves; for opinions that are false ought to be held with more strictness and assurance than those that are true, otherwise they will be apt to betray their owners before they are aware. He delights most of all to differ in things indifferent, no matter how frivolous they are, they are weighty enough in proportion to his weak judgment, and he will rather suffer self martyrdom than part with the least scruple of his freehold; for it is impossible to dye his dark ignorance into any lighter color. He is resolved to understand no man's reason because he finds no man can understand his but himself. His wits are like a sack which the French proverb says is tied faster before it is full than when it is, and his opinions are like plants that grow upon rocks, that stick fast though they have no rooting. His understanding is hardened like Pharaoh's heart, and is proof against all sorts of judgments whatsoever.

Superlatively Grand.—Over the door of the "Halls of Ambassadors" in the Alhambra—the Palace of the ancient Moorish Kings of Granada is inscribed,

"By the sun in its rising righteousness, by the moon when she followeth him; by the day when she showeth her splendors, by the night when it covereth him with darkness; by the Heaven and Him that spread it forth; by the soul and Him who formed it—there is no other god but God."

A Plucky Woman.—That terrible Thursday, Dec 31st 1863 which must have frozen into the memory of all who experienced it so indelibly that fifty summer suns will not be able to efface it, the stage (open sleigh) came up from Eddyville at 10 A. M., with several passengers. When they arrived at the Madison House, one of them, a woman, was so chilled that a physician was sent for. She soon recovered, and after dinner was determined to start for Des Moines, as were also some gentlemen, but none of them so determined as she. Mr. Mi[illegible], the agent, knew it was too cold to go west, but he knew equally well that

When a woman will, she will and you may depend on't,
And when she won't, she won't, and that's the end on't.

So he didn't stop to argue the case, but ordered out a team. The passengers piled in, among them the irrepressible woman aforesaid, who acted as a sort of captain to the expedition. Away they went and got along pretty well until they came upon the high open prairie west of town. There the wind as keen as a Damascus blade pierced them through and through, and the snow in blinding clouds swept by almost with lightning speed. It was at once evident that all this travelling was out of the question. The passengers, however, were silent, and the driver determined that he would not propose to retreat, although his eyes were fast freezing shut and his 'leaders' were already out of sight. At last the woman broke out, 'driver, driver, for Heaven's sake turn around and go back, these men can't stand it—they'll freeze to death!' It is needless to say that the driver obeyed and the trip was abandoned for that day.—Oskaloosa (Ill.) Herald.

The Love of Home.—The following noble sentiments were uttered by Daniel Webster. They are indeed, pearls of the rarest value:

"It is only shallow minded pretenders who make either distinguished origin a matter of personal merit, or obscure origin a matter of reproach. A man who is not ashamed of himself, need not be ashamed of his early condition. It did happen to me to be born in a log cabin, raised among the snow drifts of New Hampshire, at a period so early that when the smoke first rose from its rude chimney and curled over the frozen hills there was no similar evidence of a white man's habitation between it and the settlements on the rivers of Canada. Its remains still exist. I make it an annual visit. I carry my children to it, to teach them the hardships endured by the generation before them. I love to dwell on the tender recollections, the kindred ties, the early affections, and the narrations and incidents which mingle with all I know of this primitive family abode. I weep to think that none of those who inhabited it are now among the living; and if ever I fail in affection to veneration for him who raised it, and defended it against savage violence and destruction, cherished all domestic comforts beneath its roof, and, through the fire and blood of seven years' revolutionary war, shrank from no toil, no sacrifice, to save his country, and to raise his children to a condition better than his own, may my name and the name of my posterity be blotted from the memory of mankind."

The Issue.—The National Union Committee have laid down the following distinct platform as the issue of the forthcoming Presidential contest:

"THE UNCONDITIONAL MAINTENANCE OF THE UNION, THE SUPREMACY OF THE CONSTITUTION AND THE COMPLETE SUPPRESSION OF THE REBELLION, WITH THE CAUSE THEREOF, BY VIGOROUS WAR AND ALL APT AND EFFICIENT MEANS."

This is a platform upon which every loyal man can stand; and whatever party shall assume less will be repudiated by the people. The principles enunciated go to the root of the matter. The tenacity with which the leading rebels adhere to their infernal purpose, renders all slip shod compromise impracticable. They treat with utter contempt every suggestion of peace which does not involve the idea of independence; and, as an off set, the loyal people have—without precipitancy but with resolute firmness—determined that with the rebellion, slavery also must perish. And "by this sign we conquer." It is the decree of Providence, and no human plottings, under whatever guise, can avert it.—Albany Evening Journal.

MARKET REPORT AND REVIEW

Friday morning, April 22d

Prices during the week have been well maintained, and while in other cities values are fluctuating almost daily, a steady medium course is generally pursued here. So that, when a person applies for an order he is not politely assured with "I am so sorry you were not here two or three days ago, I could have filled your bill so much better &c." The uncertainty of prices is inducing many good merchants to seek Portland, as the steadiest market, and while wholesale dealers go for supplies far or near as the case may be, retailers will avail themselves of our market, and keep their stocks well assorted.

In our general markets flour is quiet to-day but holders are firm at the prices quoted. Provisions are quiet—bacon 17@18 cents, for shoulders and sides. Sugar cured hams are in good demand at 25 cents retail—ordinary 20 cents.

There is good demand but a light arrival of most kinds of produce from the country. There has been a demand for Oats for Government and the price has a firmer feeling. Hay remains unchanged since our last report.

HOSTETTER'S
CELEBRATED

CONCLUSIVE PROOF
OF THE EFFICACY OF HOSTETTER'S
STOMACH BITTERS!

PROTECTIVE MEDICATION

Great Truths
—IN—
SMALL COMPASS!

WHAT THE BITTERS ARE.

A pure delightful [illegible] the [illegible]
[illegible] calm,
Protect the system [illegible] bane,
Rouse torpid Nature and her strength sustain.

THEIR INGREDIENTS.

Juices [illegible] roots [illegible] of virtue rare,
By chemic art expressed with [illegible] care;
And [illegible] spirit [illegible] rye—
Purest of all diffusive stimuli.

RESULTS OF THEIR USE.

Digestion [illegible] appetite revives,
The [illegible] thrives,
Dyspepsia [illegible]
And peaceful sleep succeeds disturbed repose.

EFFECTS ON THE LIVER.

The bilious sufferer, languid, listless, pale,
Physicked [illegible] with [illegible]
Finds in the BITTERS all he seeks or needs,
And lives to smile at doctors and their creeds.

OPERATION ON THE BOWELS.

[illegible] pain,
[illegible] for one day remain
[illegible] you can expel—
The BITTERS tone and regulate as well.

EFFECT ON THE DEBILITATED.

The flaccid muscle [illegible] acquire
The frame [illegible] flesh the eye resumes its fire,
Strength to the limb [illegible] to the heart returns,
Full stamina and [illegible] the convalescent spurns.

BROKEN CONSTITUTION.

The constitution tried by pain or care
Or wild indulgence [illegible]
The genial [illegible] as the healthful dews
Quicken parched herbs, its wasted power renews.

CHILLS AND FEVER.

Damp, cold exposure to the malarious fog,
Brings on [illegible] fearful [illegible]
But intermittents [illegible] their kind,
HOSTETTER'S BITTERS scatter to the wind.

SICK HEADACHE

This torment dire that all enjoyment kills,
Yields [illegible] to pungent scents or drastic pills,
Its from the stomach that it takes its rise;
Tone with the BITTERS and the anguish flies.

WANT OF APPETITE.

Without due nourishment life's pulses wane;
The blood grows thin and dullness clouds the brain,
But this Elixir sets the system right,—
And Good Digestion waits on Appetite.

THE BITTERS AFTER SICKNESS.

Exhausting fever leaves its victim low,
And emaciated, Health's return is slow,
Then with the Bitters weakened Nature aid,
For in each drop vitality's conveyed.

AS A GENERAL PREVENTIVE.

By night and day on river, sea or land,
In every peril of disease we stand,
But its dread arrows harmless seem to glide
Past all with this invigorant fortified.

IMPURE WATER, ETC.

Roam through the world through every climate range,
Here is the antidote 'gainst every change,
Water impure it tempers and inures
Men in all hardships to all temperatures.

SEA SICKNESS

Who has not felt how feebly words essay
The qualms and feels on shipboard to portray?
Dread them no more, defy old Neptune's power,
The Bitters cure the nausea in an hour.

AN UNADULTERATED TONIC.

Of all the liquors borne across the sea
Not one—mark that—from acrid poison's free,
These Bitters stand 'mid stimulants alone,
Powerless to irritate, though prompt to tone.

A MILD APERIENT

Remember, too, aperient root and herb,
Are blent with [illegible] that relaxation curb
In this rare mixture, give this fact due weight,
That while the Bitters tone they regulate.

A GENTLE CORRECTIVE.

If on the stomach food to acid turns
And pungent gas the inner membrane burns,
This grand corrective soon removes the bane
And from the heartburn frees the inner man.

A SAFE AND GENTLE ANODYNE

Why not with all the opiates dispense,
That strike the nerves and paralyze the sense,
When these rare BITTERS soothe both mind and frame
Inviting both to yield to slumbers claim?

THE WORLD'S OPINION

Touching the BITTERS this grand fact is clear,
Their fame fills all the Western Hemisphere,
Known in all lands washed by the oceans twain,
Health, Hope and Vigor follow in their train.

AVOID COUNTERFEITS

HOSTETTER'S BITTERS share the common fate
Of all things good [illegible] to,
Of these [illegible] use your eyes,
From honest houses purchase your supplies.

CAUTION!
The Government Endorsement.

In order to [illegible] against the [illegible] the public are [illegible] the Government stamp [illegible] every bottle of HOSTETTER'S BITTERS [illegible] the government [illegible] to strike the eye of [illegible] the imports [illegible] HOSTETTER'S BITTERS [illegible] genuine unless the stamp [illegible]

It is [illegible] that the BITTERS are sold [illegible] since [illegible] imitations are [illegible] have against [illegible] Messrs. HOSTETTER & SMITH [illegible]
